POLICE CHIEF DEFENDANT IN COURT

Suit of B. R. Sims, Who Asks $20,000 Damages Is Now Under Way

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 20.—The civil damage suit of B. R. Sims, former private patrol operator, against Colonel John D. Fraser, Glendale chief of police, went to trial this morning before Judge Harry A. Hellzer in department No. 5 of the Los Angeles county superior court.

Sims alleges malicious prosecution, among other things, and asks $20,000 damages. He is represented by Judge R. T. Lightfoot and Attorney Lee Utley.

Chief Fraser has Jones, Wilson & Stephenson as his counsel, Attorney Mattison B. Jones appearing in court this morning.

Judge Lowe Witness

Judge F. H. Lowe, of Glendale police court, was the first witness called by the plaintiff and he identified the docket of the police court and record of the case in which Sims was arrested and later released on Chief Fraser's suggestion.

During Judge Lowe's testimony Attorney James asked leave to read the ordinance regulating private patrols in Glendale, which Judge Hellzer granted.

Judge Lowe had the role of witness today, instead of judge, and only once was he informed, "You are a witness in this case," when he essayed to comment on the procedure.

Sims to Testify

Sims will take the stand this afternoon, according to Attorney Utley, and he will occupy most of a day telling of his work in Glendale which undoubtedly will be heard by the large number of Glendale people who are witnesses or spectators.

Two days have been alloted by the judge to hear the case, but it is probable it will extend over that period.

David Lawrence Tells How He Gets Facts To Analyze Political War

This is the concluding dispatch of a series of three analyzing political sentiment in the west, after a trip of thirty days of actual investigation. Mr. Lawrence now is making a study of the east, preparatory to writing a dispatch daily on the trend in the east.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

MID-WEST AMERICA, Oct. 20.—How, it may be asked, can any correspondent in a quick journey across the continent, stopping a day or two in a state, gauge the political sentiment thereof? What is the value of pre-election polls and analyses made by itinerant reporters?

These are natural questions and are asked in every campaign, whenever any correspondent undertakes the risks of political prophecy. Since the writer began his tour, for instance, he has noted one or two comments that he did not visit in a particular state the Democratic or Republican or La Follette headquarters. As a matter of fact, this correspondent deliberately avoided most of the campaign managers of all parties.

There are political chieftains, of course, who are honest with their callers and there are others who try purposely to mislead in the hope that dispatches written will have a certain effect upon their local situation. Then there are leaders who express honest convictions, but they are sometimes misled by their own information.

No Time Wasted On Propaganda Pumper

Not always knowing the personal equation of these local managers, for, as a rule, they change with every campaign, it has always been considered better policy by this writer to waste no time with men who merely wish to pump him full of propaganda for their own ends. Out in Nebraska, for instance, where Frank Harrison, regional manager for the La Follette forces, was visited, it took about two minutes to discover that he regarded the calls of all correspondents as simply a splendid opportunity to broadcast his own case.

How, then, does a correspondent operate who enters a campaign with the sole desire of getting the facts and without any desire to affect the outcome or to take sides?

It is a problem of acquaintance and friendship over a period of many years with men who will not mislead, who endeavor to appraise a situation honestly. It is, of course, unthinkable that any correspondent can in a day's visit know as much about any state as people living in it. But there are persons resident in every state who are saturated with their own situation, who know from year to year what is likely to happen in politics, persons of balanced judgment and wide acquaintance, persons who mingle with all classes of people. Their analysis counts for a good deal with this correspondent. It has proved sound in the campaigns of previous years.

Political Reporters Prove Big Help

Again and again on the local newspapers are shrewd political reporters who watch the various headquarters from day to day, who can tell you in five minutes whether a campaign manager is whistling to keep up his courage or really convinced his figures are correct. In other cases, one finds mutual friends of these same campaign managers to whom at the lunch or dinner table on previous occasions, the inside story has been told. In other words, the task of gathering information on politics is the same as it is on anything else—a repoter's job in finding out who really is "in the know" and piecing together the viewpoints of several people.

In one city this correspondent has five friends whose views on politics do not agree. One is a lawyer, another a banker and one is a labor leader, a fourth is a settlement house worker and a fifth is prominent in fraternal circles.

Before visiting that city, letters were written, apprising each of the date the writer would arrive. They had always kept their ears to the ground. In that state the writer has never made a prediction that proved on election day to be wrong. In some states as, for instance, Nebraska, the correspondent consulted twenty-two different sources of information in Lincoln and Omaha.

Many Elected in Spite of Much Praise

Nobody can, of course, hope to predict with accuracy the outcome of the situation in every state. The most that can be done is to appraise the general sentiment and give the underlying psychology of it. Political managers dislike to see stories published which give anything but a rosy picture of their situations. Perhaps it disheartens their workers. One may sympathize with a campaign manager, but his is a poor case which rests solely on what is published in the last few weeks of a campaign. It is the writer's experience that candidates are elected in spite of the extravagant praise given them in the last weeks of a campaign and even President Coolidge may survive the meaningless pun that has been pushed as a slogan—"Keep Cool With Coolidge." Much more effective have been the billboard advertisements in so many states with the words, "Why Change?" in large letters addressed to the voter as an appeal to retain Coolidge.

Traveling the same ground year after year, a writer builds up his acquaintance everywhere with men of judgment rather than with partisans, men who mingle with the people not a few days or a few weeks, but all the year around. From them and the constant contact which a Washington correspondent keeps through congress with local situations, an appraisal can be made of what is going on.

Literary Digest Poll Proves of Value

As to polls and straw votes, they are of distinct value. The Literary Digest poll is one of the best ever taken. With some few exceptions, it corresponds with the trend of sentiment in many states. The inaccuracies are not due to the Digest staff but to the disinclination of many people to mail back their ballots. The writer talked with scores of persons who threw their ballots away rather than take the time to fill them out. For this reason one cannot always tell the exact percentage of the probable vote. But all the various polls put together mean something. They are, after all, straws which show the way the wind is blowing.

Woman's Death at Gay Party Subject of Quizz

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 20.—Police today quizzed members of a gay party held in an apartment house, during which Mrs. May Jackson, 42, plunged from a third story window, incurring injuries which caused her death. The police were told Mrs. Jackson became ill and was put to bed. An hour later her body was found on the sidewalk. Those present at the party claimed they did not know the woman had disappeared from the apartment.

Democrats Doubt Vote Taken In Straw Ballot

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Criticism of the Literary Digest straw vote was voiced by the Democratic National committee today in a formal statement, which pointed out that such votes in the past have often been misleading. Citing 1916 as a specific example, the committee said that the Digest poll that year indicated the election of Charles E. Hughes by a popular vote of more than 4,000,000. Instead Woodrow Wilson was elected by a small majority.

BIG DIRIGIBLE DELAYED ON ITS RETURN TO SOUTH

Races All Night Through Fog In Attempt to Escape Small Gale

BULLETIN

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20.—After four hours' battling with a sixty-mile gale through alternate fog and gusts of driving rain, the Shenandoah found her way out of the center of the storm before noon today and had picked up headway along the bleack California coast. At one time the giant dirigible was being forced backward in the teeth of the gale.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20.—Tossed about by heavy head winds, the dirigible Shenandoah was being badly delayed twenty miles north of Point Reyes, according to word at noon today from the naval station at Point Reyes, which is located about thirty miles north of the Golden Gate.

A report shortly after noon from the coast guard station at Fort Point, situated at the entrance of the Golden Gate, said that, owing to the heavy wind, the big dirigible was not expected to reach San Francisco until after 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Chased by a storm from out of the north, the dirigible's giant propellers whirled all through the night in a race with the elements.

Ahead of the wind and storm which broke in its wake, the Shenandoah plowed steadily through the night fog and was expected to pierce the mist of historic Golden Gate with its long, gray body this afternoon.

Sets New Records

As it sailed down the Pacific, the Shenandoah had half completed its history making jaunt of 9000 miles and in doing so hung up new records for a rigid airship. For the first time a dirigible had been north of Los Angeles, and never before had an aircraft of its type remained away so long from its hangar.

According to reports flashed here from along the Shenandoah's route, public interest in the mammoth ship continued unabated.

More than 20,000 persons saw the airship swing off its mooring mast at Camp Lewis and thousands cheered the craft on its way as the cities of Seattle and Tacoma were encircled.

Down the coast in every village and town crowds gathered during the daylight and evening hours of the Sabbath day to glimpse the silver shining Zeppelin against the sky.

WOMAN HELD ON CHARGE OF FRAUD

Alleged to Be First of Sex To Work Asserted Oil Stock Swindle Game

By O. L. SCOTT
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Woman once again has put her foot into a sacred precinct until now reserved for the resourceful male seeker of fortune—she has dipped into the rich well of oil stock schemes, but disastrously for the first venturer.

Millions seemed as nothing to this pioneering feminine Ponzi. Promises of glittering gold returns proved as easily made as the cash that flowed freely into hitherto barren coffers. That is until police got wind of the situation and now are demanding redemption.

So Mrs. Mary Kummer—the trail-blazer in feminine frenzied oil finance—sits quietly in jail here with her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wachalter, arrested on the charge of being the first of her sex to venture into the forbidden field of oil stock swindle schemes.

Promised Fortune

A smooth tongue and engaging personality proved as winning for this 25-year-old financial adventurer as suave persuasiveness did for Charles Ponzi and Lee Koretz with his Bayano river oil project that enticed millions out of Chicago's best business men.

Only she dealt with the picture of even more millions—and her specialty was Mexican oil. A convincing way that could not be denied opened the way to the small savings of the German householders in the district in which she lived.

Complainants say that for investments of $1500 they received stock, which they were assured would be worth $5,000,000, just as the value on its face said, when once oil gushed forth from the Kummer Mexican holdings.

Then One Kicked

How much may have found its way to the Kummer coffers is uncertain. It is known that Mrs. Kummer and her mother and father traveled extensively while ostensibly investigating their oil properties which they had assured almost everyone existed in Mexico. They were onlookers during the oil scandal investigations that occupied Washington through most of the spring. Their presence in the capital was used to advantage to convince prospective buyers of the vital position of Kummers in the oil industry.

Just as investors are wont to do, those who intrusted money in the venture were careful not to demand any return on their investment other than verbal assurance that all was well with oil in the southern republic. But also, just as often happens, a doubting Thomas turned up who began to wonder why he did not begin to realize some little return from the $10,000,000 worth of stock he had purchased for a mere $3,000. That question asked of the police brought the turn for the worse in the affairs of the Kummer Oil Co.

That La Follette 'Pomp'

DOROTHY MACKAILL, movie star, started a new rage in coiffures when she appeared on the set one day with her hair dressed like the Wisconsin senator wears his. It's not a "bob" but a pompadour, she insists, and other stars are following suit.

Political Pulse

Editor's Note—This is the ninth of a series of articles written by A. S. Hall, of The Glendale Evening News editorial staff, dealing with the political situation in Central and Middle West States, and in the South and Southwest. Material for this series was gathered by Mr. Hall on a tour of 6000 miles through Arizona, Nevada, Utah, Wyoming, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico. The next article of the series to appear in The Glendale Evening News will be: "Setting Precedents in Politics."

IX—THE QUEEREST ISSUE IN CAMPAIGN

By A. S. HALL
Of The Evening News Staff.

There have been many queer issues in campaigns that have passed, but in most cases, the queerness was confined to a certain community. This year there is an entire state where the principal issue can be properly classified as "queer."

That state is Arizona, and the queer issue is whether or not residents of the state, as well as visitors, will be permitted to bet on horse races in November and December. If the Democrats win out, there will be betting, but if the Republicans have their way, nary a penny will go down on the bangtails.

It is not that the residents of the state have become overly moral in the last few months, nor that the glamour and glare of Arizona's early mining days are to be considered passe. The parimutuel betting system at the state fair is the stumblingblock.

Parties Take Sides

Governor G. W. P. Hunt, who permitted the pari-mutuel machines to be placed at the state fair last year over the protests of Phoenix church members, said the machines would be tried out for a year only as an experiment. Recently Governor Hunt permitted his fair commission to make new contracts with the managers of the system for use again this year.

In the fight against the parimutuel betting system, the Republicans contend that the system was responsible for the ruin of several young men and for at least one bank employe's defalcation, and that it has provided gambling facilities unknown since the pioneer days of red-shirted miners and cowboys in chaps.

Dwight B. Heard, Republican, who is opposing Governor Hunt in the gubernatorial race, has declared that should the residents of the state see fit to put him in office, he would bar pari-mutuel betting machines from Arizona, and stop the pleasure of "playing the ponies" at the state fair each year.

Democrats Strong

The Democrats in Arizona are strong, and indications point to a clean sweep over the Republicans. In the state primary held some time ago, there were 41,545 Democratic votes cast, while the Republican vote was only 16,516. These figures were of ballots for candidates for governor, G. W. P. Hunt getting 23,113; S. P. Osborn, 10,815 and E. W. Samuel, 7617 on the Democratic ballot, while the Republican candidates polled: Dwight B. Heard, 9170, and Thomas Maddock, 7,346.

Since Arizona became a state February 14, 1912, there have been six elections for governor and the honors are even. In 1911 the Democrats were victorious, and again in 1914, but gave way to the Republicans in 1916 by 30 votes. Campbell defeated Colter, Democratic candidate, in 1918 and Sims in 1920, but Hunt, Democrat, beat Campbell in 1922.

In 1912 presidential race went to the Democrats in Arizona, as did the 1916 race. The Republicans were victorious in 1920. Wilson polled 33,170 votes and Hughes 20,524 in 1916. Harding polled 37,016, and Cox 29,546 in 1920.

Counted for Davis

Arizona, according to observations made in that state recently by the writer, is counted upon as one of the few states in which Davis and Bryan will win over Coolidge and Dawes. La Follette is not conceded much of a chance in Arizona. He will poll some votes from the Democratic party, and a few from the Republican party, but not enough to cast any doubt upon the outcome on November 4, according to political students of the state who are non-partisan.

La Follette is claiming a large portion of the state, citing the fact that his campaign has been endorsed by the railroadmen everywhere, and is counting upon the railroad working population of the state to rally to his cause. The railroaders will give him some support, it is pointed out, but they are not strong enough.

The chief railroad centers of Arizona, which are really nothing more than division or junction points, are Parker, Phoenix, Ash Forks, Williams, Tucson, Luma, Maricopa and Seligman. Phoenix will, without a doubt, go Democratic, while the southern portion of the state is liable to cast a heavy Republican vote.

Indians to Help

While Indians generally do not enjoy the right to vote, they will prove a big factor in the campaign in Arizona, inasmuch as President Coolidge not only signed the bill which restored to the Pima Indians their water rights and provided for a large irrigation dam, but he was instrumental in getting the bill through Congress.

In localities where the Pima Indians predominate, there is a strong Coolidge feeling. The new dam will make the Pima Indains the most wealthy Indians in the United States as far as agriculture is concerned, as they are considered the best farmers among the Indian tribes.

But farming, irrigation dams and water rights will not affect the state politics, and the question of whether or not Arizona is to have another season of free-handed betting on the jumpers at the state fair track will be decided at the polls in that state on November 4.

High Powered Suits on File in County Court

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 20.—In the words of the police reporter the civil courts of Los Angeles county saw several high powered suits filed for damages. Attorney Walter Gould Lincoln, Hollywood, asked $50,000 from S. M. Legge, alleging false arrest and imprisonment; Nathan Lappin asked $37,805.61 for injuries alleged to have been received in an auto crash with a car owned by D. E. Striplin. The accident took place on San Fernando road, Burbank, February 10 of this year. Eva M. Arrowsmith asked $35,350 against William O. Owen, alleging malicious prosecution for bigamy on October 9 when she was arrested and incarcerated in the county jail until the case was dismissed.

Town of Roscoe Wants To Be Placed on Map

ROSCOE, Oct. 20.—Although it is "agin" the law this community has obtained permission of the Los Angeles City Council to place an electric sign reading "ROSCOE" across the San Fernando road because in the words of the council, "Who is going to object?"

Comment

By GIL A. COWAN

Two dispatches in the papers today worthy of consideration by citizens of the United States, particularly former service men.

First, President Coolidge in a statement made public at Washington hints at another disarmament conference to effect radical cuts in the armies and navies of the world.

Second, a copyrighted dispatch from Paris, appearing in the Los Angeles Times, to the effect that Japan is preparing for war, spending $100,000,000 on its navy and building a huge air fleet.

It will be clearly seen that neither story is propaganda, but a statement of plain fact.

The citizens of the United States and particularly California, will do well to support a disarmament conference, provided it actually disarms the little empire across the Pacific.

Also, the citizens of the United States will do well to insist that America, from Canada to Chile, has an air force ready to repel any invasion.

The United States does not need battleships for conquest, but it does need millions more spent in defenses.

With the election of Coolidge practically assured at this early date, the public should begin to consider his attitude toward Congress. It is within the president's power to tell that august group where to "head in." And, it is to be hoped that he does.

The last session saw a confusion of "blocs," blocking everything, and it is about time the "house of blocks" came tumbling down.

Congressmen are elected and paid to represent all of the people, not part of them.

And, there is a meeting of the state legislature in the offing, also. That group should be closely watched next January to see that no reaction sets in against a program of efficiency and economy in the various departments, although it is probable that Governor Richardson will advocate changes which have been proved advisable after a year's experimentation in pruning expenses.

Rather strange to relate, most departments have lived within their allowances. Also, the state has been successfully guided through a time of stress without impairing its credit.

At best, the cost of government is high, but it should not be needlessly so. That is true in cities and counties, as well as states.

Los Angeles

By Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 20.—A. C. Houghton, prominent local club man, has been completely exonerated by police of suspicion in connection with holdups staged on several local oil stations recently. Houghton was placed under arrest when license plates belonging to his automobile were found on a stolen car which bandits had used. Houghton proved that the plates had been taken from his machine. One of the men arrested as they wrecked their machine during a thrilling automobile chase, was identified today as an alleged bank bandit wanted here in connection with the looting of two financial institutions within the past six months. While he gave a fictitious name at the police station, an examination of finger prints caused police to state his name was Paul Strite. His companion gave the name of R. L. Ryan. Both are charged with the theft of an automobile.

County Chemist G. L. Walker has reported that a chemical analysis of liquor sold a school boy by Sam Goldberg, 1545 Glendale boulevard, was deadly poison.

Alienists employed by the county declare that "Kid" McCoy has been "faking" insanity during the last few days. Dr. Victor Parkin says "he has control of himself."

David J. Reese, Ventura publisher, has been elected grand master of the Masonic order of California. The new leader also is president of the state civil service commission.

A new investigation of the financing of Valhalla Memorial park, a burial ground near Burbank, has been initiated by State Corporation Commissioner Daugherty. Oliver O. Clark, counsel for the Osbornes, Inc., is out of the city, and a transfer of stock will be held up pending his return.

An inquest is being held today for Mrs. May Jackson, aged 42, who fell from a window of an apartment house here early Sunday morning following a party at which drinks were served, according to police detectives.

The air liner Shenandoah is due to pass over Los Angeles tomorrow on its return trip to San Diego from Camp Lewis, Wash. It will eventually return to Lakehurst, N. J., to be housed with its sister ship, "Los Angeles," known as the ZR-3.

J. O. Marsh, now an engineer with the state highway department, is scheduled by the Board of Public Works today to be appointed chief engineer of the city utilities department, to succeed F. A. Lorenz.

ELKS ENJOY ALL-DAY PICNIC

Annual Event Is Held Sunday At Whiting Ranch Near La Crescenta

Hundreds of Elks from Glendale lodge No. 1289 enjoyed an all-day outing yesterday at the Perry Whiting ranch, La Crescenta. The festive occasion was the annual picnic of the local lodge and was presided over by Earl S. Patterson, exalted ruler.

The picnickers started coming in the early morning and by noon a throng of 500 had assembled. Basket luncheons were served under the shade of liveoaks and sycamores, and soda pop and ice cream were dispensed free.

After lunch, many gathered at the pavilion and enjoyed a concert by the Elks' band, while some strolled up through the shady canyon and others pitched horseshoes and enjoyed similar outdoor games.

Races Are Held

At 2 o'clock the children's races were run off, with the following results: 40-yard dash for boys from six to eight years old, Lincoln Service, first (baseball); James Hubbard, second (baseball); 40-yard dash for girls from six to eight years old, Marion Thompson, first (beads), Flora Alar, second (candy); 50-yard dash for boys from nine to eleven years old, Philip Southworth, first (knife), Leonard Davis, second (knife); 50-yard dash for girls from nine to eleven years old, Virginia Roeder, first (candy), Bonnie Smith, second (barrette); 60-yard dash for boys from twelve to sixteen years old, Charles Jackson, first (football), Robert Whitney, second (camera); 60-yard dash for girls from twelve to sixteen years old, Margaret Brown, first (perfume), Susie Smith, second (perfume).

The present officers played a ball game with a scrub team following the children's races, Earl Garren and Jess Hadley being the battery for the former, and Claud Caswell and J. Buss for the latter. The scrubs won, after an excitable game, by the score of 30 to 21.

Races for Adults

The adult races were then run off, with the following results: 100-yard dash, Elks only, twenty-one to thirty years old, Shirley Miller, first (auto stop light), D. P. Lawton, second (fishing rod); 60-yard dash for unmarried women from seventeen to twenty-five years old, Christine Christy, first (thermos bottle); Margaret Brown, second (stationery); 60-yard dash for married women, Mrs. C. C. Chase, first (casserole), Mrs. F. S. Hengerer, second (rubber apron); 75-yard handicap for present officers, Daniel Kelty, jr., first (auto Elk head), Earl S. Patterson, second (cigars); fat men's race, 200 pounds or better, H. E. Bus, first (gasolater), C. C. Chase, second (safety razor); 50-yard walk for Elks sixty years old and over, Tom Brown, first (flashlight), Homer Mead, second (cigars); 75-yard dash for Elks thirty years old and over, R. Sutton, first (flashlight), D. H. Hill, second (screwdriver); 75-yard handicap for past exalted rulers, John H. Fanset, first (cigarettes), James A. Apffel, second (cigars); three-legged race for men, Roeder and Niese, first (sun visors), Garren and Royls, second (cigars).

Bob Aulart won a stop light and J. J. Arnold a flashlight, for winning first and second places, respectively, in the Fandango; Mrs. Formoe and Mrs. W. E. Evans both won candy for first and second in the women's nail-driving contest; Mrs. E. W. Tuttle and Mrs. Susie Smith received prizes of candy for throwing a baseball the farthest; and the tug-of-war was won by Earl Garren's team, which outpulled Tom Brown's team, each member of the winning team getting a cigar for his successful exertions.

The contests were followed by dancing in the pavilion, with music by the Elks' orchestra.

Strange Man Attacks Girl, 9, In Her Home

The Glendale police are looking for the fiend who Saturday noon attacked Rosetha Callingham, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Callingham of 1168 Irving avenue. The attack was made while Rosetha was alone in the house with her sister Marjorie, 10 years old.

According to the child, a man about 30 years old, who, on Columbus day, had made advances to both children, came to the house pretending to be a repairman, and started to fix the gas stove. He then attacked Rosetha while Marjorie was in the back yard, but was frightened by someone passing and ran from the house making his escape in a car.

According to a description given by the children, the man was about six feet tall, wore a suit with light stripes, had brown hair, was of light complexion and wore a grey cap.

In the two years of existence of the Cologne-London airplane service, there have been no accidents.

Users of radio receiving sets in South Africa must pay a license fee of $9.75 a year.

REPUBLICAN CARAVAN COMING

Plymouth Delegation to Be Escorted to Glendale Tuesday Afternoon

When the Republican automobile caravan, which left Plymouth, Vt., the birthplace of President Coolidge, swings into the last lap of its transcontinental journey tomorrow afternoon, it will be met by several hundred automobiles from Southern California. These cars will assemble at the Glendale headquarters at 220 South Brand boulevard and travel up San Fernando valley to meet the caravan.

The caravan left the birthplace of President Coolidge early in September. Stops were made at a number of cities, and automobiles and orators joined the caravan as it wended its way westward.

The Pasadena group which will be in the Southern California delegation to welcome the caravan, will be in charge of State Senator A. Burlingame Johnson. John Robert White, Jr., and W. E. Evans will assume charge of the entire delegation when it leaves Glendale.

After making stops at San Fernando and Burbank the Plymouth caravan will come to Glendale, where it will assemble on Broadway between Brand boulevard and Central avenue. The caravan is expected here at 5:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

From Glendale the caravan will go to Los Angeles, where a torchlight procession will be staged before a rally at the Trinity auditorium. Speakers at the rally will be Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, A. W. Jeffries, M. W. Pitt and Herbert Moore. Jeffries and Moore are congressmen from Nebraska and Iowa, respectively, who have been with the caravan since it left Plymouth.

Glendale Woman Tells Of Visits to Wisconsin

Mrs. M. W. Gear who makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. M. T. Sherman, of 1217 East Lexington Drive, returned Saturday afternoon from a five months' visit with relatives and friends at La Crosse, Milwaukee and Waukeshau, Wis. She reports that Milwaukee people asked about the earthquake which had visited Southern California, and said newspapers in Wisconsin had carried erroneous reports of the earthquake. Mrs. Gear stated also that Southern Californians were reported starving. Mrs. Gear informed Milwaukeeans they were having the hard times, not Californians.

Fire Damages Two Homes Over Week-End

Flames bursting from the kitchen at the home of Harry Thomas, 816 East Elk avenue, brought the Glendale fire department to the scene at 6:30 o'clock Saturday night. The blaze was extinguished. Captain J. D. Meyer, who was in charge, reported the damage slight. The cause of the fire is unknown.

An overheated gas heater at 409 East Colorado boulevard was turned off at 5:45 o'clock Sunday afternoon by a crew from the Glendale fire department, headed by Captain Ralph Dodsworth. No serious damage was done.

To give satisfaction is to give your best.

A MAN'S A MAN FOR A' THAT

We often hear that clothes do not make the man, and yet there are many of us who judge people by the clothing they wear. John Burroughs, who knew men as well as Nature said, "When I would go a-visiting, I find that I go off the fashionable street—not being inclined to change my dress—to where man meets man, and not polished shoe meets polished shoe."

We, here in the west, are not such great offenders in the way of judging men by their clothes as are people in the eastern and older sections of the country. Pioneers give little thought to their clothes, and the farther we get from the pioneer stage the more thought we are likely to give to dress and personal adornment. A visitor from New York, thinking she was criticizing Southern California, said recently, "Here you have no style. People wear what they please and no one seems to think it odd or strange." Anyone who does not put clothes before all else must see that the lady really complimented us. Another visitor invited to a social affair, and not knowing the custom here, was a little fearful that she might not be correctly dressed. When she arrived, she found guests in costumes ranging from sport clothes to evening gowns.

Of course those who do not want to make themselves conspicuous will not be freakish in their manner of dressing. There are certain customs in dress as well as in etiquette that it is well to observe whenever possible. Being well dressed gives one poise, and a man or woman should dress suitably for his or her work. A neat appearance is not to be disparaged. But, it is possible to be well dressed and yet not be a slave to the dictates of style and to "what people will think." It is possible for a man to be shabby and not suitably dressed and yet be a man for a' that. There are things of more importance than clothes, and we should train ourselves to discriminate.

Dress as well as you can, but do not judge another by the clothing he wears.

THE FOLLIES OF YOUTH

The modern young man and woman who have been so unfairly slandered have a friend in Lemuel H. Murlin, president of Boston university, who recently defended the young people of today in a speech before the women students of the university. "There is so much more than bobbed hair to the modern girl which her critics, souring on life, do not realize," he is quoted as saying.

Edward Carpenter, English poet and philosopher, also defends the young woman of modern times. He says, "I remember the young women of the last generation and their limited lives. Dabbling with water colors, doing a little embroidery, and having no opinions whatever used to be considered the only life for a girl. Now all the problems she has to face arise from the fact that she is still obliged to conform to certain standards that were intended for a totally different creature—the girl of yesterday. One of the most striking differences between this generation and the last is the way in which women say what they mean with what used to be masculine directness. They once seemed to make a point of saying what they did not mean."

The world has heard the younger generation traduced and maligned as many times as a new generation has come into being, but the boys and girls of today seem to be receiving more than their fair share of criticism. If the truth must be told, they are bearing the blame for their own shortcomings and those of their parents as well, for the deterioration of character which is said to afflict the race today is not peculiar to the young people.

We might speak of, and deplore, the follies of youth with impunity if we ourselves had laid off this foolishness and assumed the mantle of wisdom when we passed out of youth's estate.

WHAT IS GENIUS?

We have been told so often that genius is only another name for hard work that we believe it. We have repeated the aphorism that genius is one-tenth inspiration and nine-tenths perspiration so many times that most of us have come to feel that we could develop genius in ourselves if we cared to bestir ourselves a little. But, now William James jars us out of our complacency, by telling us what things really constitute genius and distinguish it from mediocrity.

Ordinary people are slaves of habit, according to this writer. They do what they have been taught without variation; they are dry, prosaic and matter of fact in conversation. They take the world for granted and have no sense of humor except the coarse physical kind which rejoices in practical jokes. And, the nearer we approach the brute the more these qualities are intensified.

But, the highest order of mind is quite different. "Instead of concrete thoughts following each other in a beaten track of habitual suggestion, there are abrupt cross-cuts and transitions from one idea to another, the most rarefied abstractions and discriminations, the most unheard of combinations of elements, the subtlest associations of analogy."

According to this definition it would seem that a man with a single-track mind could not be a genius.

ELECTIONS ON SUNDAY

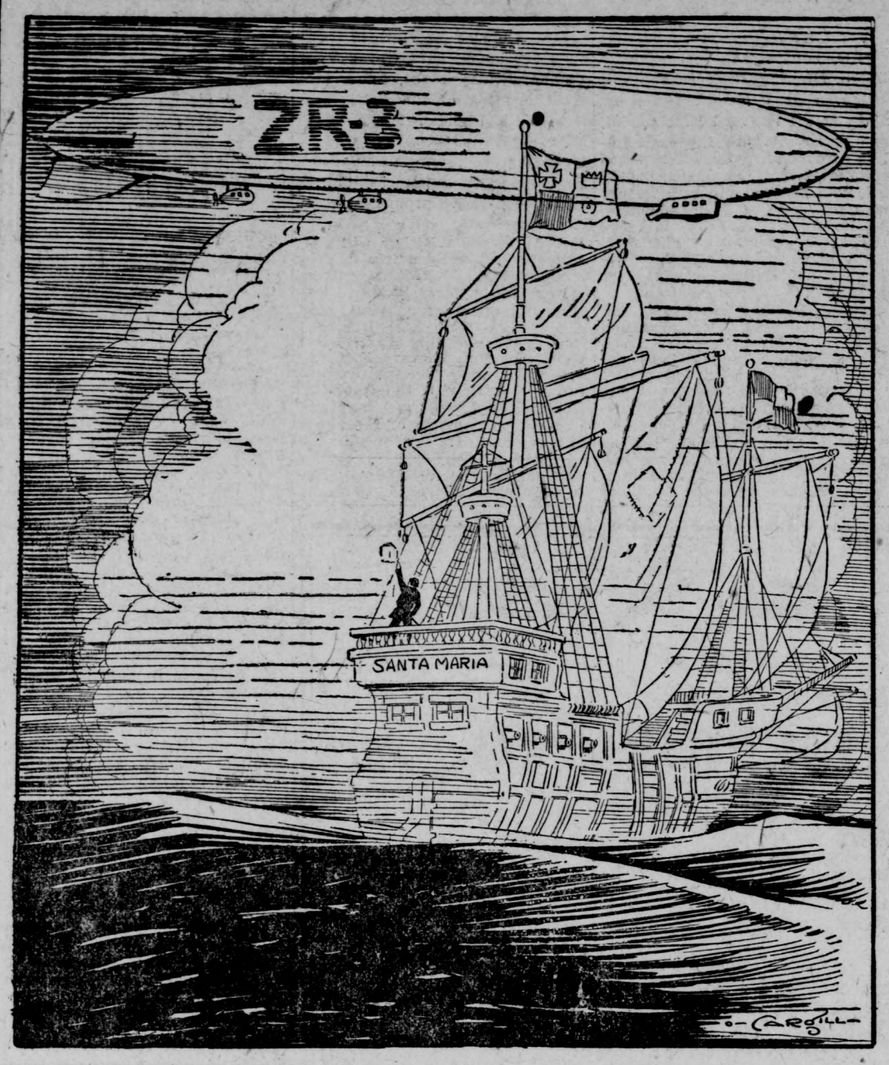
It is now being suggested from widely different sources that elections be held on Sunday, the Rev. J. A. Rondthaler, dean of the protestant sects in Mosseheart, Ill., being the latest to advocate the plan. In some foreign countries, including France and Germany, it is the custom now to hold elections on Sunday. The argument is, that people have more time on Sunday to vote and that it would lift the duty of voting into the atmosphere of service and worship.

It is doubtful if there would be any advantage in holding elections on Sunday as far as getting out the vote is concerned. Workers are now allowed time from their work to perform this duty and those who do not take it now at the expense of the boss would not do so on Sunday when their time is all their own to go motoring, golfing or otherwise pursuing pleasure. And, those who do not now regard the election privilege as a duty and a service would not change their attitude by having election day come on Sunday.

The darkest hour is just before dawn, but cheerfulness makes light of it.

When free speech defames character it becomes expensive.

SHIP AHOY!



On Expressing One's Personality

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Said a society woman the other day: "I was handicapped at the start by having neither wealth nor beauty, so I endeavored to express my personality in my surroundings and in my dress.

"I adopted a certain color and kept to it, making it my own, as you will doubtless have noticed. My hats, my gowns and every detail of my toilette to the smallest accessories, was carried out in a restful, peace-giving shade of pastel grey. I have identified my whole personality with it. The pastel shadse of my drawing room give the air of almost cloistered peace. Now I am known as the lady of repose."

This lady confessed to Lady Diana Manners, who adds that, while most women are content to go with the crowd and follow where others lead, it is best to be individual.

Be in the fashion, yes, she says; if you are not you will be old-fashioned and dowdy, but fashion must be adapted to suit yourself.

She adds that she is a firm believer in individuality in clothes and that in many cases she makes her own gowns. She thinks that every woman should try to design at least one dress for herself.

"Since I was a child I have made nearly all my own dresses, from the designing, cutting out and fitting, to the actual stitching. I even made my own wedding gown and I do not think many women can boast of having done this. I did this because I wanted my personality to rise above mere fashion."

One's personality does not depend upon beauty of face nor shapeliness of form; it depends upon one's self.

Recently an actress in London advertised herself as the plainest woman in the world and the worst singer. She achieved a success, however, because she was entirely herself, had a distinct personality and expressed it.

It will be found that the women who have most influence in the world have not been those gifted with beauty of face and form but those who have been enabled to express themselves in dress and otherwise.

To be sure, there is such a thing as carrying individuality too far, and of expression to the point of exaggeration, but there is also such a thing as carrying conformity too far. Just what is the golden mean, every woman must find out for herself.

Horoscope

Astrologers read this as an unfavorable planetary rule for everything, except selling. Mercury and the Sun are in malefic aspect.

All the signs point to much sensational news at this time with many scandals uncovered and libel suits threatened.

Much that will disturb persons who hold high place is likely to happen, but lucky stars guide those who hold important positions and still seek honors.

It is well not to enter into any political trades or to make any promises while this configuration prevails.

Many surprising results again are prophesied for the national election in which there may be many losses on the part of candidates who feel the most secure.

A London astrologer who cast the horoscope of the Prince of Wales announces that he may never ascend the throne and warns him to take great care of his health, since he may find that there is much work to do in life.

The Queen of England has the direction of the Sun to sextile of Mercury in her horoscope, which denotes worry in the family circle.

As the sun was entering Libra for the autumn quarter the seers foretold much sedition among the people of the United States and a big following of false political gods.

Losses to the United States through frauds and even forgery are foreshadowed.

Much politics, trickery and corruption are indicated just preceding election day.

Earthquake shocks in the central states, and in other places seldom affected are persistently prophesied.

Under this planetary government the president of the United States should gain much in prestige.

Venus on the meridian at Berlin will greatly benefit Germany, the seers prophesy.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be careful of letters and writing. They will remove with great benefit to themselves.

Children born on this day should be quick-witted and able to succeed. These subjects of Libra are on the cusp and have Scorpio characteristics, which are good.

Today's Poem

INGRATITUDE

Six children through the world were scattered
And quite forgot their father old,
Who gave his life, now cruelly shattered,
To guard against sins manifold;
Beneath his load, with shoulders bent,
His years in servitude were spent
Six lives to shield, six lives to mould.

Six children thrived while he was dying—
The odds were heavy, six to one,
Yet none of them was even trying
To brighten up an old man's sun;
Their sins were deep, their hearts were cold,
But time had brought them to behold
The crushing fruits from wrongs they'd done.

Six children deep in retrospection
When dad was spry and they were young,
Their hearts were smothered with affection
And life to them was one sweet song;
With moistened eyes and drooping head,
Each huddles close to his death bed,
Forgiveness begging for their wrong.

Around the homestead shadows thicken
That merge into a deep, dark cloud,
A father starved, by death lies stricken,
Now sleeping in a pauper's shroud;
Reproach and guilt have forced their way
Into those selfish hearts of clay,
To haunt their souls austere and proud.

—George G. Benedict.

Who's Who

Sir Patrick Hastings, K. C., the attorney-general in the labor government of England, is the man over whose action in the case of James R. Campbell, Communist editor, the storm broke which resulted in MacDonald's fall.

Speaking in the House during debate on the vote of censure against the Labor government Sir Patrick declared that he regarded the vote as directed at him. His defense was that until the commons began to investigate the case he had considered it of minor importance; but that he had found that Campbell had a good war record, was wounded and decorated, and was now temporary editor of the "Workers' Weekly."

Born in 1880 and educated at Charterhouse, Sir Patrick followed the profession of mining engineer from 1898 to 1899. Subsequently he served in the South African war. In 1902 he turned to journalism, issuing numerous publications and in 1904 he was called to the Bar.

It was not until 1919 that he was appointed counsel to the king.

Making Presidents

By H. Irving King

IN 1876

The election of 1876 brought the country to the verge of Civil war. In any other country a like situation would have meant an armed conflict. The Republicans nominated Rutherford B. Hayes for president and the Democrats Samuel J. Tilden. Blaine was the popular candidate for the Republican nomination—and almost got it. Hayes was not of great prominence. He had served with credit in the war, been a member of Congress and governor of Ohio. Tilden, a great lawyer and governor of New York had achieved nation-wide fame by his prosecution of the "Tweed ring," and his smashing of the "Canal ring." William A. Wheeler, running mate with Hayes, had, as a member of Congress from New York, smoothed over a political tangle in Louisiana by the "Wheeler compromise." Thomas A. Hendricks, governor of Indiana, who ran with Tilden, had been Tilden's chief competitor for the Democratic nomination for first place.

The Prohibitionists nominated for president and vice president Green Clay Smith of Kentucky, and G. T. Steward of Ohio. Smith had been a Union general in the war, had been governor of Montana and a member of Congress; and later became a Baptist minister. The "Greenbackers," calling themselves the Independent National party, nominated the philanthropist, Peter Cooper, 85 years old, for president and General Samuel F. Cary of Ohio for vice president.

The morning after the election the newspapers all announced the election of Tilden. Senator "Zach" Chandler, chairman of the Republican National committee, had, on election night, seen enough of the returns to convince him that the day was lost and gone to bed at the Fifth Avenue hotel in New York.

Before daylight John Reid of the New York Times woke him up and showed him the latest returns, indicating a disputed election in Louisiana, Florida and South Carolina. "Old Zach" communicated with Senator Chandler of New Hampshire, secretary of his committee, and later in the day the country was astonished to learn that Tilden's election was to be contested. There was intense feeling and threats were openly made that any attempt to seat Hayes would be resisted by force. But Congress created a body known as the electoral commission which decided by a vote of eight to seven that Hayes had 185 electoral votes and Tilden 184—and Hayes was quietly inaugurated. In the popular vote the Republican count gave Tilden 4,285,992 and Hayes 4,033,768. The Democratic count was: For Tilden 4,300,590 and Hayes 4,036,298. The "Greenback" vote had grown from 29,489 at the previous election to 81,737 and the Prohibition vote from 5608 to 9522.

TWO HOUSES ENTERED SUNDAY

Burglars Use Jimmy to Gain Entrance; Loot at One Place Worth $300

The residence of Maurice Root at 808 Fischer street, was ransacked by thieves last night and valuables totaling over $300 removed, including a gold locket, a gold nugget chain valued at $125, a gold bracelet valued at $75, and other articles of jewelry. Entrance was gained by using a flat jimmy on a north window, it was found on investigation.

Police believe that the same thieves broke into the house of Misses A. M. and E. G. Bowne at 1217 East Windsor road, earlier last night, as in this case the kitchen window was pried open by a flat jimmy. A Pacific Electric ticket book and $2 cash was the extent of the loot found here.

The burglar alarm at the Pendroy Dry Goods Co. went off at 4:30 o'clock this morning. The police surrounded the store and Earle C. Pendroy, proprietor, was sent for. He arrived and turned off the alarm. An inspection of the establishment failed to indicate that anyone had succeeded in gaining entrance.

Mrs. C. L. Gates of 1013 Wilcox avenue, Hollywood, reports to the Glendale police that a navy blanket was stolen from her car Saturday night while it was parked in front of 222 North Brand boulevard.

A. J. Lee of 214 North Brand boulevard reports the theft of a leather suitcase from his car Saturday night, and a box containing $10 worth of groceries. In the suitcase was a brown suit, shirts, socks and other articles of wearing apparel. The car was parked at the corner of Harvard and Orange streets at the time, he states.

The home of D. A. Boydston at 431 West Loraine street, was burglarized at 9 o'clock Saturday night and $27 in money and some jewelry taken.

The Brand Central market at 207 North Brand boulevard, was robbed of $45 in cash Saturday afternoon, reports E. Rodway.

Local Letter Carrier Wins Poultry Awards

Newton L. Clarke of 1129 Melrose street, a letter carrier, won high honors as a breeder of game bantams at the poultry show held at Pomona in conjunction with the Los Angeles county fair last week. Mr. Clarke exhibited twenty-six birds which he raised in his back yard. He won special awards for the best display in black breasted red game bantams and red Pyle game bantams. His other awards included two champions, best male and female, nine first prizes, five second, three third, two fourth and one fifth, including best game bantam pen.

Competition at the show was keen, contestants coming from many places in and out of the state, interest being especially centered in these classes, which are always popular with the fanciers. This is the first year Mr. Clarke has shown young stock from his own mating, having been left the parent stock when his father, who was a nationally known judge and breeder, died a year ago.

Mr. Clarke was chosen a member of the board of directors of the Pacific Coast Bantam club. The club was responsible last year for the production of the world's largest show of bantams. The Pacific Coast Bantam club is one of the largest specialty clubs in the west and the yearly meeting was held Saturday at the close of the show.

R. Ernest Tucker, superintendent of municipal recreation of Glendale, acted as chairman of Saturday's meeting.

Furnace Floor Heaters Have Unexpected Sale

Sale of the Ward furnace floor heater is exceeding all expectations according to a statement of Mr. Bruner of the Jewel City Plumbing Co. In making his announcement Mr. Bruner related the tragic happening incident to the invention of this floor heater as follows:

One day—this was a good time ago—W. H. Ward returned to his home to find his 7-year-old daughter, while playing with the gas heater, had disconnected the hose and been asphyxiated. When he recovered from the shock of his daughter's death, he set himself to the task of devising a heater from which such dangers would be eliminated. After six years of work he fashioned a heater that sets below the surface of the floor, is sealed at the top with a cap and has a concrete vent running through the roof to carry off the noxious gases.

Smaller Parts Are Essential In Drama

Efficient leadership is essential to the success of any movement, but co-operation and teamwork among the workers are just as necessary. On the stage of life only a few have star parts, the most of us are extras or supers, but we are needed to bring the play to the proper climax.

In the big movement of Community development, sponsored by those whose names appear on this page, every citizen is indispensable. It is not necessary to stand in the spotlight and display great ability in order to have an important part. The supers are all-important in this play.

If every citizen should take the pledge of Community Loyalty, every other effort that is being made for a Greater Glendale might cease, the movement would accomplish its purpose automatically. For that is all that is needed to build a Greater Glendale—Community Loyalty and co-operation.

So, very little effort is required of us. Glendale has a good name, morally, financially and numerically, and it is easy to be proud of our citizenship. It doesn't cost anything to become interested in civic affairs and to lend our influence to their right solution. It doesn't take much time to speak cordially and kindly to the visitor and stranger or tell about Glendale's advantages as a Home City whenever the opportunity presents itself.

And surely it requires no effort to patronize Glendale merchants. The effort and the expense come in going out of town to do our buying.

These are all small items, little things that all can do. If your time, your talent and your means are limited, you can still have a part in building a Greater Glendale simply by being Loyal to your city.

It is the Great Majority of Glendale's citizenship that has brought her thus far on her way toward the ideal city and it is the same group, possessed of the virtue of Community Loyalty and working together that must achieve further greatness for Glendale.

REGISTRATION FALLING IN NEW YORK

City's Vast Population Has Moved to Boroughs and Will Vote There

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News. Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, Oct. 20. — New York city is undergoing a complete and interesting metamorphosis. The outlying boroughs of the greater city have outgrown the parent isle, and while Manhattan may continue to be the heart of the throbbing metropolis, it cannot longer control its outstretched limbs.

The old political slogan of "coming to the Harlem" with a stated plurality must be revised. Manhattan island itself no longer can control an election or offset a tremendous upstate majority. Manhattan will continue to be the center of wealth, but the time is within easy vision when Manhattan will be given over entirely to business, while the teeming millions who toil in the vast workshop must find their habitations in the outlying boroughs and suburbs.

Registration Falls

An indication of what is coming over New York is brought by registration figures just compiled in advance of the federal and state elections. These figures show that since four years ago there has been an actual falling off of voters in Manhattan island —the great stretch of city reaching from the Battery to the Harlem river. Every other borough of the city shows a big increase in voters.

Brooklyn, the lowly city gobbled up by Manhattan some years ago, when there was so much excitement over the Tammany tiger crossing the Brooklyn bridge, now shows a larger registration than Manhattan. This unquestionably means that the population of Brooklyn officially known as King's Borough, is far greater than that of Manhattan—another case of the child outgrowing the parents.

Boroughs Gain

The Bronx, that great borough reaching north of the Harlem and spreading from the Hudson river far out to Long Island Sound, has risen almost at the rubbing of an Aladdin's lamp. And far away, Queensborough, once known as Long Island City, is stepping ahead with vast reaches of land still to be covered by buildings.

Down the bay, down beyond the Statue of Liberty, down where the incoming liners stop at "quarantine" and most of the ocean travelers get their first real view of America and hear the first hoarse toot of an American locomotive shuffling along on shore, the borough known as Richmond, comprising all of Staten Island, also shows by registration an increased vote and an increased population. Of the five boroughs making up the greater city all are going ahead in population and voting power except Manhattan.

FIRE IMMERSION TOLD IN SERMON

Rev. C. H. Chrisman Outlines Baptism of Holy Spirit At Night Service

Taking as his text, "He shall immerse you in the Holy Spirit and in fire," Matthew 3:11, Rev. C. H. Chrisman said in part at the night service yesterday at the Gospel tabernacle church:

"How can we accept John's testimony as to water baptism and reject his testimony as to the baptism of the Holy Spirit? Fire penetrates and reveals. It goes to the very heart, searches our innermost being. Fire purifies and consumes; fire refines and beautifies; fire illuminates and stimulates. There is a day coming when the universe will be lighted up by the conflagration of the earth, but nothing illuminates like the Holy Spirit.

"Fire energizes and quickens; the Holy Spirit is the source of life and the Holy Spirit quickens into life seeds of blessing that have been long lying dormant. Fire melts and warms; the fire of the Holy Spirit warms the people of God and thaws out old grudges; let two enemies get this fiery baptism of the Holy Spirit and their difficulties will melt away like snowflakes in the sunshine. Fire protects and defends. The Holy Spirit is a wall of fire about the believer and the saints of God are protected from a thousand evils. He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with fire."

The Wrath To Come

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM, Copyright 1924

CHAPTER I

It is a passage which might well be haunted with memories of the famous courtesans, dignitaries, criminals "de luxe" and aristocrats of the world—the long straight stretch of passage leading from the Hotel de Paris to the International Sporting Club of Monte Carlo. Nevertheless it seemed to Grant Slattery a strange place for this meeting which, during his last two years' wandering about Europe, he had dreaded more than anything else on earth. Complete recognition came slowly. Each slackened speed as the distance between them diminished. When they came to a standstill there was a moment's silence.

"Gertrude!" he exclaimed.

"Grant!" she murmured.

The purely automatic exercise of this conventional exchange of greetings helped him at first through what must always have been a bitter and terrible moment. For though Grant Slattery had every quality which goes to the making of a man, he had also, about some things, a woman's sensitiveness.

"It is a long time," she said softly.

"Time is entirely relative," he remarked didactically.

She seemed a little helpless. It was an embarrassing situation for her and a painful one for him, this encounter with the girl who had jilted him publicly in the face of all Washington society and eloped with his rival. This meeting in the curved archway passage with a flunkey at either end was the first since he had taken leave of her at her house one night three years ago, after an evening at the opera. She had lain in his arms for a moment, her lips had met his willingly—even as he had often remembered since—with a touch of somewhat rare passion. And on the morrow she had become the Princess von Diss and had sailed for Berlin.

"This was bound to happen some day," she said, regaining her self-possession almost to the point of calmness. "I hope that you are going to be nice to me."

"I was prepared even to be grateful," he answered, with a little bow. "Alas! now that I see you I find it impossible."

"Very nice indeed," she approved. "I don't think I have changed much, have I?"

"You're looking more beautiful than ever," he assured her.

She smiled. His eyes told her that he spoke the truth.

"And you," she went on, "you're just the same—a little more dignified, perhaps. They tell me that you have left the diplomatic service. Is that so?"

"Yes."

"Why?"

"No work left," he replied. "We move on towards the millennium."

Their eyes met for a moment. There was a silent question in hers which he ignored.

"Where were you going?" she inquired.

"I've been lunching at the Club," he answered. "I was just going to stroll across to the tennis courts for an hour."

"You can come to the Rooms with me instead," she suggested. "We will find two chairs and talk for a little time. We can't part like this."

He hesitated.

"Am I likely to meet your husband?"

"My husband is not in Monte Carlo at present. I hope you're not going to be horrid about him, Grant—you won't want to fight a duel or anything of that sort?"

"If I had felt that way about it," he answered, "it would have been at an earlier stage of the proceedings. A woman has a right to change her mind. I have harbored no grievance against any one."

He turned with her and they made their way to the Bar, almost deserted at that early hour, for it was barely four o'clock, and the Rooms were only just opened. They found two comfortable chairs and sat for a few moments in silence. Each was taking stock of the other. He had spoken the truth when he had declared that she was more beautiful than ever. She was very fair, her complexion exquisitely creamy, with scarcely a tinge of color. Her eyes were so deep a blue that they seemed at times almost to attain to that rare and wonderful shade commonly termed violet. Her hair was yellow, the color of the faint gold in the morning. Her lips were a little fuller than the delicacy of her features required, but beautifully shaped. Her figure he thought improved. She still possessed the grace of long limbs and a slender body, but she had passed from a threatened thinness to a gracious but still delicate shapeliness. He looked admiringly at her beautiful fingers as she withdrew her gloves.

"You always liked my hands," she murmured, studying them for a moment.

His eyes were fixed upon a ring she wore—a thin platinum guard with a single beautfiully set pearl She smiled at him.

"Terribly wrong of me to keep it, I know," she admitted. "But I have. Do you want it back, Grant?"

"No," he answered, a little brusquely. "But—"

"But what?"

"I am not going to flirt with you," he declared.

She threw her head back and laughed.

"The same familiar Grant, honest to the point of pugnacity. Why, my dear man, how do you ever expect to shine as a diplomatist?"

"I have given up the idea," he reminded her.

"So you are not going to flirt with me," she sighed. He avoided the challenge of her eyes, secretly delighted that he found it so easy.

"Since we are here, we must order something," he insisted, summoning the waiter. "The fellow has been watching us reproachfully for the last five minutes."

"It's very early, but I'll have some tea," she acquiesced resignedly.

Grant gave the order and turned back to his companion. He was forced to make conversation in order to avoid drifting too readily into the intimacies of the past.

"You find life amusing in Berlin?" he asked politely.

"Not at all. Berlin bores me. That is why I'm here. And I can see perfectly well that you are going to do your best to bore me too. I am disappointed in you.

"That," he complained, "is a little hard. Now that I am a free man, I am full of intelligent interest in Berlin. I hoped that you might gratify my curiosity."

"You were there yourself two years," she reminded him drily.

"But that was five years ago. The evidences of what I suppose must be called the Royalist movement had only just begun to appear. Prince Frederick, for instance, was still at school—he had scarcely shown himself in public. Now they tell me that he is almost a popular idol."

Gertrude von Diss gazed thoughtfully into her little gold mirror and used her powder puff with discretion.

"My husband being a member of the government," she said, "I never discuss politics. I wonder if I shall find a place at one of the baccarat tables. I have lost so much in my small way at roulette that I think I shall give it up for a time. It is not amusing to lose always."

"I'll go and see, if you like," he offered politely.

"Presently. Tell me about yourself. Why did you give up the Diplomatic Service?"

DOBINSON PLAYERS

The Dobinson Players will present "The Country Cousin" again this week at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre, starting Wednesday, when a 2:30 o'clock matinee will be given, in addition to a performance at night, announces Miss Eva Daniels, business manager.

The play will continue Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with a Saturday matinee, she states, the final performance being given Saturday night. The following week a new play will be offered.

THE GATEWAY

"Daring Youth," Principal Pictures' latest attraction, presented by B. F. Zeidman, will be of interest to 110,000,000 people in the country, if Irvin Cobb's statement that everyone is a would-be scenario writer is true.

"Daring Youth" exemplifies a set theory of scenario writing. It takes a plan of action which has been proven by repeated trials and shows its perfect evolution. In the present instances the story is a comedy drama of modern married life. The story has been worked out, scene by scene, subtle touches and suggestions replacing titles in a majority of cases.

Bebe Daniels is the star, while her leading man is Norman Kerry, who scored such a success in "Merry Go Round." In the cast is Lee Moran of vaudeville fame, who is making his bow before the screen public.

"Daring Youth" has had the benefit of direction by William Beaudine, who made such pictures as "Penrod and Sam" and "Boy of Mine." It will be shown at the Gateway theatre today and tomorrow.

THE T. D. & L

"In Hollywood with Potash and Perlmutter," continues at the T. D. & L theatre.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE EGG BEATER

The Fuzzy Fox went on tiptoes to the den of the Woozie Wolf and tapped on the window with his paw.

"Hist! Hist!" whispered the Fuzzy Fox.

"Well, what's the matter?" growled the Wolf. "Are you pretending to be a snake to scare me?"

"No! No!" whispered the Fox. "Not so loud! I'm trying to keep quiet so no one will hear what I am going to say. I came to tell you I have thought of a new way to catch Uncle Wiggily."

"How?" asked the Wolf.

"I'll write him a letter and say I am sick," went on the Fox. "I'll say in the letter that I have no one to get me anything to eat, and Uncle Wiggily is so kind-hearted that he will come to my den to help me.

"I'll be in bed all covered up, and I'll put flour on my black nose to make it look pale, so he'll think I'm sick. And as soon as he's in my den I'll jump out of bed, lock the door, and I'll have him. Then I can nibble his ears. Isn't that good?"

"Yes, but where do I come in?" asked the Wolf.

"Oh, I'll let you in the door after I have tied Uncle Wiggily to the bed post with the clothes line," said the Fox. "That's what I came to tell you—you're to come over to my den tomorrow afternoon. I'll have Uncle Wiggily there sure."

"I'll come!" promised the Wolf, snickering with joy and glee.

The next morning Uncle Wiggily got a letter. It was from the sly Fox and asked the bunny please to come to the den and help the sick fox get something to eat.

"Well, I may as well go!" said the kinid rabbit to himself. "If the Fox is sick he won't be strong enough to nibble me. I'll take Nurse Jane's egg-beater along and make the Fox a molasses cake. Maybe that will cure him!"

So Uncle Wiggily took Nurse Jane's egg-beater and hopped over to the den of the Fox. If Nurse Jane had been at home she never would have let Uncle Wiggily go for she could have told him that the Fox was up to some trick.

But the bunny went to the den and knocked on the door.

"Come in," invited the Fox, talking in a weak, low voice to make believe he was ill.

"Oh, you poor chap!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily when he saw the sly Fox in bed, his black nose covered with white flour. "How pale you look! I'll make you a molasses cake, and you'll feel better."

"Yes, please do!" whined the Fox.

Uncle Wiggily broke some eggs in a bowl and began to beat them up, turning the wheel of the beater very fast. The Fox crawled slowly from the bed, for he wasn't sick at all.

"I'll slip up on that rabbit while he's beating the eggs and nibble him. "Then I'll tie him to the bed post!" thought the Fox.

But Uncle Wiggily looked up just in time. He saw the Fox coming toward him. Then the bunny turned the egg-beater so fast that a lot of the white and yellow batter of the eggs flew in the eyes and nose of the Fox, blinding him.

"Oh, yow! Yowzie—yow!" howled the Fox, jumping up and down and wiping the egg-beater all over his face. "I can't see! I can't see!"

"And I'm glad of it!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "You can't see me run away! You tried to play a trick on me, and it didn't work!" and out of the window he jumped and safely he hopped home to his bungalow.

"Fooled again!" howled the Fox, as he washed the egg batter out of his eyes. "What will the Wolf say to me? Oh, dear!"

So the bunny was saved. And if the cork from the ink bottle doesn't go swimming in the glass of milk, and turn it red like a cinnamon lollypop, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the potato masher.

PIN WORMS

"Dear Doctor Peters:—One of my roomers told me she was troubled with pin worms. She said a doctor told her everyone has them, but I know that everyone hasn't them, nor do they want to have them. I think they are a menace to the rest of us. I hope I am getting this right—Mrs. A. E. M."

Yes, you are getting it right, Mrs. M. The doctor is wrong. Your roomer is a menace unless she is very particular about her sanitation. The eggs of pin worms are miscroscopic in size, so cannot be seen by the eye, but if they get into the intestinal tract, through the mouth, they are just as potent to produce new worms as though they were the size of a dinosaur's.

Inasmuch as we haven't had an article on pin worms for some time, and as they are not rare, especially in children, I will review the subject.

Pin worms are sometimes called thread or seat worms. They are very tiny, threadlike worms from one-fourth to one-half inch in length. Their abode is in the rectum and the large intestines and sometimes in the appendix. They may cause a great deal of inflammation and many reflex symptoms even to the extent of convulsions and St. Vitus' Dance.

The local symptoms are intense itching and local inflammation. The suffering is worse at night because they then migrate to the outside of the rectum and the genital organs.

The chief reason why pin worms are so difficult to get rid of is because, with children in particular, there is not absolute cleanliness. Their hands may become contaminated with worm eggs, hundreds of them. These eggs are then conveyed to the food which they consume and a new hatch comes on. It is also important that all fruits and vegetables eaten raw should be thoroughly washed and that foods are not handled by unclean persons.

Pin worms can be home treated. Once a day, give a rectal injection of a solution made of two ounces of quassia chips boiled in a quart of water for twenty minutes, adding sufficient water to keep it warm from time to time. Inject a cupful of this warm, and follow up with another cupful.

A good cathartic can be taken, preferably castor oil, in the beginning.

Another effective local treatment is to inject a pint of luke warm water with one teaspoonful or so of borax in it. Then an injection of a pint or so of a solution of bichlorid of mercury, one to 10,000. Get your druggist to make this solution for you. And remember, it is POISONOUS. Do this every second or third night.

Garlic infusion, made with a dozen or so cloves of garlic, mashed and boiled for a few minutes in a pint of water, will also kill the worms, and is perhaps better for home use, because it is non-poisonous. Eating the garlic during the treatment is another good method of assault.

For local itching any antiseptic ointment will do. Remember the worm eggs are apt to get on your hands while you are treating a case, so scrub them thoroughly after treatment.

Some time ago I published a reader's letter asking how to remove the squeak from shoes. The following replies have come in:

"M. F." and "C. A. S." advise practically the same method: "Drive three shoe nails in the bottom of the sole in a straight line down the middle, (at ball of foot). What causes squeaking is the inner sole and outer sole rubbing together, but this will stop it." "Mrs. R. I. also suggests the above method, but with this difference: "Make a hole in the bottom of the sole by driving a 'finishing nail,' or one of smaller size, into it just far enough so that it will not come through the inside. If this hole later becomes packed with earth, it may make the squeak return."

"E. J. U." says: "Take the squeaking shoe to a good shoe repairer and have him cut the stitching between the soles and insert powdered soapstone between the upper and lower sides, then sew the sides together again. This will cause the squeak to disappear. I have had several pairs treated in this manner with entire success."

"Column Reader: Tell the reader who asked about removing the squeak from shoes, to take her shoes to a cobbler and have two small holes bored in the bottom of the soles. Another way I have heard of, is to put the shoes into a pan containing one-fourth inch of water and let them stand overnight; they must be dried very slowly after this soaking."

"M. Van H.: Try soaking the soles of a squeaking shoe in heavy oil such as linseed oil."

"M. F." uses the water method. "I put my shoes in a pan of water overnight, having the water cover the sole up to where it joins the top of shoes. This has never failed me."

Anonymous: "For squeak in shoes, turn the tops of shoes down as far as possible, then turn back the sole-lining. Now apply machine oil to the spot where the shoe squeaks, or that part of the sole where you think the squeak is made. Leave the oil on for a day or two and there should be no further trouble. Repeat this method if necessary."

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman, in care of the "Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

Hallowe'en Lunch

A bewitching Hallowe'en witch, riding a broom stick, presided over a brilliant luncheon affair Saturday at the Oakmont Country club, where Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, president of the Tuesday Afternoon club, entertained members of the official board under the presidency of Mrs. Daniel Campbell, members of the present official board, past presidents, club editors and special guests.

Most attractive were the Hallowe'en favors made by Estelle Brain for the decoration of the table. At each place were lace paper doilies frilled with orange crepe paper, and cunning witch figures grotesquely posing on boxes containing salted nuts. Larger carnival figures occupied the center of the table with the big witch.

The luncheon hour was delightfully informal, the club "family" and guests talking over events of the past two years and of the many things promised by the coming months.

Mrs. Daniel Campbell, junior past president, who sat at the right of Mrs. Montgomery, led in singing, while Mrs. J. T. Crampton and others contributed to the pleasure of the affair with original poems and toasts. After the luncheon each one present told some interesting experience or anecdote.

There were present Mesdames Daniel Campbell, John Robert White, Jr., A. A. Barton, E. B. Sutton, William Hunter, Homer D. Lockwood, H. E. Bartlett, C. E. Hutchinson, A. P. Findlay, S. C. Packer, Frank Ayars, John Dunn, R. W. Meeker, C. O. Kling, A. R. Chappell, Mabel Franklin Ocker, H. S. McCormack, M. E. Plasterer, H. C. Wilcox, C. W. Houston, J. T. Crampton, E. W. W. Hallowe'en Party

Mr. and Mrs. L. Gratias of 912 Osceola street entertained a company of friends with a dinner and card party Saturday night. The rooms of the Gratias home were decorated in keeping with the Halloween season, cats and witches being placed on the curtains while jack o'lanterns and orange-colored candles were used to light the rooms. A ghost impersonated by Ellsworth Gratias greeted the guests upon their arrival, meeting them on the front doorstep. Dinner was served at 7 o'clock and five hundred was played later. Mrs. J. Cornell and Emil Zeoli won prizes for high score. Consolations went to Mrs. B. H. Fellows and O. Carlisle.

Games were played following the card games, a prize for one of the games being won by Mrs. A. Winchell. Dancing was later enjoyed in the patio. BEST 1924 TEAMS AT NOTRE DAME AND ILLINOIS

GRID RULERS PICKED BY WALSH

California, Stanford Lead On Coast; East Without Favorite Now

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Notre Dame and Illinois rule the middle west; Georgia Tech, Tulane and Auburn are out in Florida, Alabama and possibly the front of the southern pack; California and Stanford seem to have an early lead on the Pacific coast group.

The east knows neither leader nor definite favorite for that honor. In this section, Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Syracuse, Dartmouth Pennsylvania, La Fayette, Washington and Jefferson, Williams and Rutgers remain unbeaten, and to pick a leader from the field would be to pick one pea from a two-quart can.

From the standpoint of national leadership, the writer would venture, off hand, that Notre Dame and Illinois are as good or better than the next. He doubts very much if any college has as good an early season as Notre Dame. The Irish had everything on Saturday in beating one of the best Army teams of the modern generation—everything, that is, except stamina. Notre Dame is built for speed, not endurance. It lacks the heft to absorb many more poundings such as it received from the Army, and, unfortunately, Notre Dame has just begun a succession of gruelling games.

Defense Baffled

The question before the house is whether its remarkable speed and deception can offset for a complete season what probably will be the physical superiority of the combined opposition. For two periods, Miller, Crowley, et al, backed up by as fine a bit of interference as has been seen on an eastern gridiron in years, completely befuddled the Army defense.

The Irish backfield masked to a nicety not only the intent but the direction of its plays, and more than once I say Army forwards studiously chasing men who merely pretended to have the ball. But, in the final half, Notre Dame's speed was gone, and with it went all that was vital in the attack. The writer fears the worst for this great team in later games.

Grange Is Star

As for Illinois, it proved against Michigan that it packs what is probably the greatest punch the country over. The remarkable Grange, with Britton and the forwards mopping up in front of him, seems to be the Heston of modern times. However, Illinois has had thirty points scored against it in three games, which either does or does not speak well for its defense, depending on whether one considers such teams as Nebraska, Butler and Michigan to be push-overs.

As for the eastern leaders, Yale, Princeton and Dartmouth, have played tie games while most of the others have yet to get down to serious business with the big time opposition. That is the difference between eastern and western schedules. They immediately plunge right into the heavy going in Horace Greeley's favorite territory.

Washington U. May Win Conference Title

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20.—Without a single upset last Saturday to mar the even tenor of its way, Pacific coast football this week swings toward coming conference games with the set purpose of determining what college eleven shall have the honor of being known as the champion gridiron squad of the far west.

California, Stanford, University of Southern California, University of Washington and Idaho stand out today as the leading elevens in the Pacific Coast conference, with the University of Washington apparently ahead of the others. The Seattle Huskies have totaled up more points to date than any other conference or non-conference team in the west.

University of California had what seemed to be a miraculous escape from a tie game with the strong Olympic squad of San Francisco. A desperate rally in the last two minutes of play gave the Bears a touchdown, making the score 9 to 3 in their favor, and keeping intact a record of over four straight years of undefeated football.

Oregon Suffers

Stanford had little trouble disposing of the green Oregon squad 28 to 13, while up in Portland, University of Southern California defeated the Oregon Aggies, 17 to 3.

University of Washington walked over Montana 52 to 7 in Seattle on Saturday, apparently avenging the defeat of Washington State at the hands of Idaho at Moscow on Friday.

All signs point toward a University of Washington championship this year. Aside from the battle with California at Seattle November 8, the Husky team will not face any real opposition this season.

He Grabs 'Em

RAY FRENCH, stellar shortstop, playing with the Glendale White Sox team this winter.

One of the snappiest and classiest shortstops ever seen on the local diamond is playing with the Glendale White Sox team this winter. He is Ray French. French grabbed 'em for the Vernon Tigers before the New York Yanks heard about him and sent their scouts out here to look him over. Then he was put on the Yank payroll. He also played with the Boston Red Sox.

QUESTION—What was the reason for the change in the rule by which a team scoring a touchdown may line up on the three-yard line on the try for point after touchdown?

ANSWER—To encourage variety of play in trying for the extra point. For instance a team might be tempted to try a running play to gain three yards whereas it would rely on the kick when five yards were to be gained.

QUESTION—Is not the drop-kicker helped by the lining up of the scoring team two yards nearer the goal line of the team scored against?

ANSWER—Yes, because he has more room in which to work and stands in less danger of having his kick blocked.

QUESTION—Has the rules committee ever considered encouraging running plays or forward passes in tries for point after touch-down in any other way than through reducing the five-yard limit?

ANSWER—Yes, this point was discussed last winter at the annual meeting of the Rules Committee. It was proposed to award two points for a score after touchdown made by a forward pass or running play and one for a score made by a kick. But with customary caution it was decided to hold this in abeyance for further discussion next winter.

Walter Johnson Will Play In Anaheim Bowl

ANAHEIM, Oct. 20.—Walter Johnson is coming home! The peerless pitcher who started his career in Orange county will appear with Babe Ruth at the Brea Bowl, Sunday, October 31, in a benefit game for the Anaheim Elks, according to advices received today by D. A. Lewis, ruler of the local lodge.

This will be Johnson's only appearance in Orange county and proceeds of the game will go to the Elks' Christmas fund. It is expected that brother lodgemen from all Southern California points will attend.

WHITE SOX BEAT VENTURA B.P.O.E.

Pale Hose Get Four Doubles Off Fairbanks In One Inning; Win 8 to 5

Fred Fairbanks, pitching ace for the Ventura B. P. O. Elks' champion herd of ball players, weakened in the sixth inning of yesterday's game with the Glendale White Sox at the local park, and the Pale Hose crew hung the crepe on the visitors' hopes. This tells the whole story. The teams were tied two-all up to the sixth inning, when the White Sox smashed out five hits for four runs and the game, winning 8 to 5.

Dick Bonelly, who hurled for the Kansas City Blues last season, held the visitors to five hits. Costly errors by the White Sox aided the Ventura Bills, and were largely responsible for their five runs. Glendale collected eleven hits off Fairbanks.

Two snappy double-plays by the White Sox helped to keep the Ventura score down. The first came in the second inning with two on. Salcido hit to French, forcing Scott at second and being thrown out at first, French to Pfahler to Bodie. The next double-play was in the following inning, with the bases loaded. Weldon hit to French, forcing Butts at second, French to Pfahler. Pfahler hurled the pill to Tellez, catching Lilly at home.

Hitting Honors

To Shields and Bodie go the hitting honors on the White Sox team, with Emerson getting a big share. Shields battle in three runs, got two hits and a sacrifice in four times at bat. Bodie was safe on Butts' error in the first inning, was intentionally walked in the fourth, and doubled in the sixth and seventh. He batted in two runs. Emerson started the sixth-inning rally with a double to right and opened the seventh with a homer which rolled to the farthest point of the centerfield fence. Tellez and Bonelly doubled in the sixth, making four doubles off Fairbanks in that inning.

"Chicken" Hawks, pilot of the White Sox, was out of the game on account of a wrenched back received in practice. Bodie was pulled in from right field to play first base, and Ward worked in the outer garden.

"Micky" O'Brien, catcher for the visitors, was the outstanding star of the Ventura Bills. He drove in one run and crossed the plate twice. Out of five times, he got on every time except once, when he struck out. He was credited with only one hit, however, errors robbing him of two more bingles. He was walked once.

International Racing Finished, Is Opinion

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—In the opinion of horsemen, expressed freely today, Epinard's defeat in the Laurel stakes on Saturday will mark the end of international racing between the best horses of Europe and America. It is contended that Epinard should not have been allowed to go to the post in the Laurel race, owing to the bad condition of his feet.

French and Italian automobile makers are seeking to sell their cars in Spain, in competition with those from America.

Stars of Baseball Will Play In Game Here Next Sunday

Baseball fans, get ready for a high-class game at the White Sox park on San Fernando road next Sunday. It is to be "McNeely Day," when all Southern California will pay tribute to Earl McNeely, outfielder with the Washington Senators and star of the world's series. McNeely will play with the Glendale White Sox on that day.

The Hollywood Merchants, with an all-professional lineup, will be the opponents of the White Sox next Sunday. In the Glendale lineup will be such stars as Earl McNeely, Ken Penner, Denny Murphy, Ping Bodie, Dick Bonelly, Ray French and Bill Shields. Penner and Murphy, coast leaguers, will be the battery for the Sox.

ON THE SANDLOTS

Elmer Reiger allowed the Wilmington club only five hits and the Hollywood Merchants won, 10 to 2. Butler was on the mound for the losers.

Bob Wallace held the Pacific Electrics to two lone hits yesterday, one in the second and one in the ninth, while the Gilmore Oilers collected eleven hits for five runs off Dill. Wallace fanned seven and walked three.

Inglewood went down to defeat yesterday when the Chansloe-Canfield-Midway-Oilers won, 7 to 2. Clink and Kelly did mound duty for Inglewood in the absence of Ernie Haycox, who hurled for the Tigers the latter part of the season.

Two passes issued by Fenick spoiled a perfect record when Redondo beat Fairview, 2 to 0, yesterday. Fenick hurled a no-hit, no-run game for the beach lads, fanning nine men.

The St. Louis Giants made their winter debut at Goodyear park yesterday, trimming Jasper's Colored All-Stars 3 to 0, before a crowd of 8000 fans.

Burbank was downed by the Biltmore Hotel crew, 13 to 8.

Van Nuys beat the Gene Murphys 16 to 14 in a slugfest at Van Nuys.

Arcadia smothered the Kant Skores 10 to 5. Orsatt, playing with the losers, got a homer and a three-bagger.

Crowd Welcomes Tent Comedians to Burbank

When the curtain arose on the initial offering of the Murphy Comedians in their new location at Cedar street and San Fernando road, Burbank, last night, a packed house greeted the members of the cast. "The Girl From Home" is the vehicle chosen by Vin Moore, director, for the first week. Numerous obstacles were overcome by the company in getting ready for the opening night, the large tent being delayed and not put up until 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Included in the audience were many from Glendale who patronized the Murphy Comedians during the career of the company in this city. Barbara Gieney, playing the lead, received an ovation, and roars of mirth greeted the actors and actresses as the play progressed.

U. of C. Extension to Teach Public Speaking

The University of California extension division has announced a course in public speaking to be given at the Wilson Intermediate school, Tuesday from 7 to 9 p. m., beginning tomorrow. It has been said that many a person now in obscurity might rise to the highest rank if he were far-seeing enough to train his voice and body, as well as his mind. Members will receive actual platform practice.

Employes Entertain Employer With Party

Employes of Mother's Favorite Cookie company of Glendale gave a surprise party for Eldon Ford at his home, North Sierra Villa drive, Eagle Rock, Saturday night, the party being arranged by Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Ford and Mrs. Eldon Ford. There were music, games and refreshments. Mr. Ford was presented with a reading lamp as a token of appreciation from the employes.

North Pacific Sawmill Speeds Up Production

SEATTLE, Oct. 20.—The North Pacific sawmills are speeding up production in spite of the softness of the market. Production, according to the West Coast Lumbermen's association, is above sales, but this is a temporary condition, due to hesitation on the part of line yards and distributors in the Middle West to place firm orders prior to election.

SEATTLE ON TOP, SERAPHS SECOND

Pacific Coast League Race Is Brought to Close After Hard Battle

By THREE STRIKES
For Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 20.—The most exciting and spectacular race for the pennant in the history of the Pacific Coast league wound up yesterday with the close of the 1924 season. The Seattle Indians, managed and partly owned by Wade "Red" Killifer, won the flag, the first pennant to be hoisted over the Seattle ball park, Los Angeles finished second.

Not until the very last day of the season was the pennant winner decided, there being five clubs in the running with the opening of the last week's play. The Indians took the first game of a doubleheader from the crippled Portland Beavers yesterday, thus cinching the honor. The Angels split a twin bill with the Vernon Tigers leaving them one and one-half games behind the pennant winners.

Were in Cellar

The phenomenal comeback of the Los Angeles club is deserving of unlimited commendation. Seven weeks ago they were in last place and considered the weakest team in the league.

During these last seven weeks Marty Krug brought the local club up from the cellar to the most dangerous contender in the final decision, and only Portland's weakness kept the Angels from copping the coveted flag.

Attendance Large

A crowd of 17,000 fans—the largest of the season, cheered the Angels in their last desperate fight at Washington park yesterday, when they defeated Vernon in the opener 4 to 1, but lost the second, a hotly contested battle, 5 to 2.

At the close of the season, Harry Williams, president of the Pacific Coast league, announced that not only was the 1924 season the most interesting and exciting but that it brought prosperity to all clubs, an increase of 15 per cent in attendance over last year being made.

FINANCE COMPANY TELLS OF STOCK

President Gibraltar Concern Outlines Opportunities Company Offers

Marvin Smith, president of the Gibraltar Finance corporation, has purchased $25,000 worth of securities in that organization making his subscription total $40,000. This, he says, is a conclusive answer to the question, "Are the securities of the Gibraltar Finance corporation a good investment?" He continued:

"Of unusual importance to any stockholder of this corporation, both large and small, is the quarterly dividend which the corporation will pay on January 1. This will amount to 2 per cent and will be on a basis of 8 per cent per annum, which is guaranteed on all the preferred stock of the corporation. This dividend and also the fact that the securities of the corporation may be purchased on the easy payment plan is resulting in an unusual call for this stock at this time.

Easy Payments

These securities are being sold on a payment of $20 down and $10 per month. One unit consists of two shares of preferred for $200 and one share of common free. Those who buy now will secure a share of common stock free with each two shares of preferred and also will participate in the dividend to be paid on January 1.

"For safety, soundness and large profits the securities of the Gibraltar Finance corporation cannot be surpassed. It is not at all unusual for concerns of this kind to pay 50 per cent on the value of the stock and it has gone as high as 75 per cent, while at the same time the stock is secured by loans on real estate which has been appraised by the appraisal board. Southern California is just beginning to grow. This fall after the election promises to be the best in the history of the city.

Glendale's Tax List Calls Forth Protests

Many protests are being received by The Glendale Evening News against the size of tax bills recently presented. It is said, in a number of instances, taxes have been doubled. Following is a letter of protest from Dr. Henry R. Harrower:

"Editor The Evening News—I suppose Glendale citizens are commencing to recover from the jolt they received when the pleasant window envelopes from W. O. Welch were opened.

"I have never been opposed to paying for the advantages of living in Glendale and in Los Angeles county and in California, but I have never been so astounded as at the amount of taxation I have been asked to pay this year. Practically everybody that has met me since these delightful missives were opened, has introduced conversation with some remark about his tax bill, and I would like to initiate some concerted action to arouse opposition to this unconscionable imposition upon the residents of Glendale.

"Residence property that has been taxed at $30 or $40 a year now is more than twice as heavily burdened, and it seems that there is some discrimination in the taxation depending upon which side of Brand boulevard one lives.

Mr. Editor, I am in favor of progress and my actions for years have shown it, but, in view of the size of our tax bills, ought we not to be very careful regarding expenditures calculated to increase them?

"I shall be very glad to co-operate with you and other citizens of Glendale to discover why taxation is already 20 per cent higher in Glendale than in Los Angeles, that is, taking into consideration the method of assessing or valuing property, and to devise ways and means of getting back to a reasonable basis again."

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—New forward movement in a few of the low-priced railroad stocks and a continuation of the modest rally in the oil stocks were the principal features of an otherwise dull and irregular stock market today. The demand for railroad stocks came principally from traders, who expect favorable dividend action by the directors of some of the roads which have been making excellent traffic and earning records in the last six months. Recent meetings of eastern railroad presidents also suggest the possibility of an early agreement on plans to consolidate a number of prominent transportation lines.

St. Louis & San Francisco common stock went through net high at 33¼, while Wabash A gained about one point, at 45½, and Pittsburgh & West Virginia, St. Louis Southwestern, Seaboard Air Line, New Haven, Wheeling & Lake Erie, Missouri Pacific preferred, Katy preferred and other low-priced rails participataed in an upward movement in which fractional gains were scored.

The trend of prices in oil stocks was upward, though trading in this department was confined to a small number of the active issues and price gains were small. Corn Products, Stewart-Warner, Schulte Stores, Consolidated Gas and others of the industrial and specialty stocks which have been attracting speculative attention of late, sold in good volume on a rising market.

Industrial leaders, like American Can and General Electric, were conspicuously active today. Heavy selling of Bethlehem Steel Co, accompanied rumors that the company did not earn enough to cover the preferred dividends in the third quarter, and the stock declined nearly two points, to 41⅞; Crucible and Gulf States lost a point each.

Call money was in good supply at 2 per cent. Cotton markets declined on speculative and hedge selling; grain markets were irregular, with May wheat down 2½ cents a bushel in Chicago.

Sales today, 704,900 shares; bonds, $10,339,000.

L. A. EXCHANGE

By Southland News Service

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 20.—Following reports on the floor that additional lands had been leased for active drilling the Dominguez Field Holly Development Co. stock opened strong today on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange at $1.16 and went to $1.18 before settling back to $1.15 where it sold heavily during the morning sessions.

Other oils were quiet with Julian common selling in one lot only at $7.75, while preferred held at $13.50. Globe Oil sold at $2.50.

Oils also featured the bond sales, 33,000 Union Oil issues changing hands. The fives were most popular that sold at 99.75 and $99.87½.

Tom Reed was active today at 25 cents while Richmond Consolidated sold at 3½ cents. Other minor sales were recorded.

In the utilities Edison common was the only active stock selling firm at $98. Los Angeles Investment was quiet despite the reports that Standard will drill a third well on their Baldwin Hills property.

BOUTS TO FEATURE ELKS 'JINKS NIGHT'

Dan Tobey of Hollywood Fame to Be Third Man In Ring Tonight

Another of the popular "Jinks Night" programs is scheduled at the Elks' lodge on East Colorado street tonight, when five boxing bouts at varied weights will be staged by Captain John Meyers of the Glendale fire department, with Dan Tobey of Hollywood stadium fame, as announcer.

The bouts will be refereed by Curley O'Connor of the local lodge, No. 1289, announced Daniel Kelty, Jr., who with Earl Garren comprise the committee on arrangements.

All Urged to Attend

Glendale Elks and their friends are urged by Walter W. Jones, secretary of the local lodge, to come and see these bouts. The last "Jinks Night" program was August 18, which many Elks will recall as red letter occasion, he says. The bouts will start at 8 o'clock, after a brief lodge meeting, to be followed by a "feed."

These programs are for the purpose of raising funds to send the championship band of the local Elks' lodge to Portland in the spring to contest for the premier honors of the coast. The Glendale Elks' band already holds for the second successive time the state championship, which was won this year at Catalina Island and last year at Eureka.

GAMBLER IS DYING GUN FIGHT RESULT

Restaurant Owner Mortally Wounded as Los Angeles Police 'Clean Up'

By GIL A. COWAN
For Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 20.—Samuel Brody lies in the receiving hospital mortally wounded, following a gun fight at "Farmer" Page's establishment, 120 West Third street.

Brody is a restaurant owner who, according to his story, lost $1100 in gambling at Page's place. He has confirmed what police and public believed—that gambling is running wide open in the downtown district.

Page was released by the police after being questioned, although Brody alleges he fired one of the two shots that hit him. Police said they would not let matters rest there and a general "clean-up" already has started.

According to those "in the know," there are three large gambling places operated in the business district with several smaller rendezvous for those who chance their luck at cards or dice.

Practically every office building, it is said, has its little coterie of gamblers, which are of little concern, and in the county gambling establishments are known to have operated in Glendale and Pasadena on a magnificent scale.

In Glendale gambling was charged conducted at a roadhouse, while in Pasadena a private residence operated as a club with women "cappers" and plentiful liquor made it a most exclusive and expensive resort.

Officers expressed the belief that these suburban Monte Carlos had closed with the "tilted lid" in Los Angeles.

Winnipeg wheat pool directors declare they have been besieged with orders to buy its holdings, but to date have sold very little, preferring to wait until it can deal with reliable overseas traders. As a result speculation in Canadian wheat has been reduced, it is claimed.

The United States department of agriculture attributes not a little of the credit for reducing the boll weevil damage in the cotton belt to the "January north freeze" the early part of the week which almost completely destroyed winter truck crops as well as the cotton pest.

Wood, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, told of a committee being formed to promote better advertising.

The merchants passed a resolution protesting against any action of the City Council which would create a commercial zone on Broadway between Olive street and the eastern city limits. It was pointed out that the Broadway High school is in this section of the city and the merchants are desirious of keeping that part of Glendale a residential district.

C. J. Hatz, president of the organization, presided at the meeting.

H. M. Butts, vice-president of the Civic Center Campaign committee, spoke on the bond issue of $650,000, which will be submitted to the voters on November 4, for the purchase of the Harvard High school property as a Civic Center. He outlined the necessity of a Civic Center and its usefulness.
